THE NATIONAL CONGRESS.

THE MONTANA ELECTION CASE AND CHINESE ENUMERATION IN THE SENATE.

The House takes up the Idaho Admission Bill—And a Man Named Henderson Orates a la Ingalls—Auctor Reed is at it Again.

[By United Press.]

WASHINGTON, April 3.—(Senate.)—In the Senate today, after the consideration of routine business, and the selection of Mr. Ingalls to act as president pro tem. during the absence of Vice-President Morton, the Montana election case was taken up, and Mr. Gray finished his argument begun yesterday, in support of Clark and Maginnis, the democratic claimants. The matter then went over until Monday.

The House bill to amend the census law by providing for the enumeration of the Chinese population in the country was taken up and discussed, but without action, and went over till Monday.

The House to-day, after transacting the usual amount of routine morning business, resumed consideration of the Idaho admission bill.

Mr. Stewart, of Vermont, spoke in support of the bill, and denounced the practice and teachings of the Mormon Church.

Mr. Buckalew, of Pennsylvania, opposed the Idaho constitution because it outlawed the members of a certain church.

Mr. Oates, of Alabama, criticized the compulsory education feature of the constitution, and Mr. McAdoo, of New Jersey, while denouncing the practice of polygamy, thought that the constitution invaded the domain of religious belief.

Mr. Springer, of Illinois, spoke against the bill.

Mr. Henderson, of Iowa, said that the attitude of the democratic party was a familiar sight to the country. It was the democratic party behind its old shield—a constitution of its own making, not a constitution made by the fathers. The democratic party was in its old breaches pulling back, when the civilized world cried "forward and onward!"

The democratic party, he said, was a polygamist and had a whole batch of wives. Slavery was one, slave territory was another, treason was another, corrupt ballot boxes were another, and the party had been true to every one of them.

The bill was then passed; yeas 120; nays 1, the democrats refraining from voting, and the speaker counted a quorum.

On motion of Mr. Cummings, of New York, the services in memory of the late Samuel S. Cox, of New York, were postponed from this evening until 1 o'clock April 19th.

The House then, at 5:15, adjourned. The democrats say that they intend to make this a test case, and to have the courts pass upon the constitutionality of the rules allowing the Speaker to count a quorum. It had been intended to make one of the contested election cases a test case, but as this could be done only by a suit for salary, brought in the court of claims, this course was abandoned, and this present action decided upon.

A PRETTY TOUGH TRIO.

Three Counterfeiters Pulled—While in the Act of Carrying on their nefarious business.

[By United Press.]

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 3.—United States Secret Service Agent Baggs, assisted by the police, made a clean capture of a gang of counterfeiters last night. Shortly after six o'clock the posse made a raid upon a room on the top floor of No. 32, East Genesee street.

The door was smashed in, and seated about a counterfeiting outfit, with brand new bogus dollars scattered around them, were found Edward Syster, Charley Mann and Harry Williams. They were quickly handcuffed and taken to the police station. They are a pretty tough trio.

A NEW PATENT OFFICE

To cost $3,000,000—Will Probably be Erected.

[By United Press.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 3.—The bill ordered to be prepared by the House committee on patents, providing for the construction of a new patent office building, was presented to the committee by Mr. Butterworth, of Ohio, to-day and endorsed. The bill provides for an appropriation of $3,000,000 out of $3,600,000 now to the credit of the patent office, and constitutes the Secretary of the Interior, the Secretary of the Treasury and the Attorney General a commission to select a site and superintend the construction of the buildings. The committee hope to have the bill passed, and the building under construction within a year.

THE CIGAR MAKERS' PROTEST.

They Oppose the Tobacco Schedule in the McKinley Tariff Bill—And Submit a Substitute to the Ways and Means Committee.

[By United Press.]

WASHINGTON, April 3.—The Key West and Tampa manufacturers of Havana cigars, who appeared before the ways and means committee yesterday, submitted a substitute schedule to day with the request that the committee adopt it in place of the one to which objection is made. In the schedule adopted by the committee, bales of tobacco containing any tobacco suitable for cigar wrappers are made dutiable at the higher rate prescribed for tobacco suitable for wrappers. The substitute schedule aims to do away with this feature. It is as follows:

Schedule F—Tobacco and manufacturers of leaf tobacco suitable for cigar wrappers, if not stemmed, two dollars per pound; if stemmed, two dollars and seventy-five cents per pound. Provided, that if any bale, box or package contains twenty per cent. or less of tobacco suitable for cigar wrappers, the entire quantity of tobacco contained in such bale, box or package or in bulk shall be dutiable, if not stemmed, at 35 cents per pound; provided further, that if any bale, box or package contains more than twenty per cent. of tobacco suitable for cigar wrappers, the entire quantity of tobacco contained in such bale, box or package, or in bulk, shall be dutiable, if not stemmed, at two dollars per pound; if stemmed, at two dollars and seventy-five cents per pound. Provided further, that if any tobacco, imported in any bale, box, package, or in bulk, shall consist of tobacco produced in other countries, the entire quantity of tobacco contained in such bale, box, package, or in bulk, shall be dutiable, if not stemmed, at two dollars per pound.

The above would be entirely satisfactory to the manufacturers of clear Havana cigars.

A DASTARDLY DEED.

A Dead Sheep Filled with Strychnine—And Placed Near a Spring—Cattle and Dogs and Children Made Violently Sick.

[By United Press.]

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., April 3.—A dastardly attempt to poison several families was discovered here to-day at Fairview, a suburb, where a large number of people reside, twelve families of whom get their drinking water from one spring. It is a flowing spring and runs for some distance. For sometime, dogs, cattle and animals have been dying, and the children complained that the water was bad and became violently sick. An investigation disclosed the carcass of a sheep near the spring filled with strychnine enough to kill a hundred people. The animals that died had been devouring the carcass. The stream is thoroughly poisoned. The perpetrator is promised summary punishment if he is caught.

EXAGGERATED REPORTS.

The Floods Not so Damaging as Reported—Live Stock Suffering—But Crops will be All Right.

[By United Press.]

NEW YORK, April 3.—The World has dispatches from the mayors of Memphis, Helena, Arkansas City, Greenville, Vicksburg, Bayou Jara and Natchez which are to the effect that the reports concerning the floods on the lower Mississippi have been greatly exaggerated, and that there is very little danger of loss of life. Live stock will probably suffer somewhat, but the crops will be all right.

A Railroad Case Moved to Durham—Change in the Express Office—Trinity College Matters—Personals, &c.

[State Chronicle Bureau.]

DURHAM, N. C., April 3.—In my hurried and brief statement of Dr. Yates' morning sermon on last Sunday, I fear I made it so brief as to have it misunderstood. The sermon was on the unity of the church, and was not anti doctrinal as to the essential doctrines of religion, but only against the non-essential dogmas of denominationalism. The sermon was a Scriptural appeal for the oneness for which Christ prayed.

The court is still occupied with the water works case.

The case of Durham vs. N. C. R. R. and R. & D. R. R. has been moved to Otham, the defendants fearing that they could not get justice here.

The express office has changed hands and Mr. L. T. Bristow now has charge of it. He has fitted up a handsome office on Cleveland street.

The building committee of Trinity College met yesterday at the office of B. N. Duke. W. Duke was elected chairman, B. N. Duke, treasurer, and R. E. Lyon, secretary. Fifty thousand dollars was set aside for erecting the main building.

Dr. Crowell was appointed to select plans, which he is to submit at the next meeting.

J. M. Odell, W. Duke, E. J. Parrish and J. S. Carr were appointed a committee to ascertain the price of materials. The committee will meet again April 18th, at two o'clock.

The lectures of the young men at Trinity church last evening were enjoyed by all present.

HIGH COMMENDATION

Of the New President of the Raleigh Business College.

[Special Cor. State Chronicle.]

KNOXVILLE, TENN., April 2, 1890.—Mr. J. E. Matheny, at present of the Richmond Shortland and Type writing School, writes me that he will soon take charge of the Raleigh Business College.

It gives me pleasure to say to my Raleigh friends that Mr. Matheny is a gentleman worthy of their confidence and support.

He served as my private secretary for nearly two years, having charge of all my correspondence, book keeping, &c. I feel therefore that I know him very well. He is a very accomplished shorthand writer and teacher, and a rapid operator on the type writer. While at this university he gave satisfactory instruction to some of our students. In all my relations with him he impressed me as a thorough Christian gentleman.

Mr. Matheny is so practical and thorough in his methods that I believe he will succeed in his enterprise in Raleigh.

Very truly,

CHAS. W. DABNEY, JR., President.

HENDERSON NEWS.

A New Captain For the Vance Guards—A Negro's Desperate Deed.

[Special Cor. of State Chronicle.]

HENDERSON, N. C., April 3.—The Vance Guards, Co. C, 3rd regiment, have just held their regular annual election. Capt. Daingerfield's health becoming such he could not attend to the duties of Captain, he asked the company not to re-elect him. Lieutenant Henry Perry was elected Captain. Lieut. Moss was promoted to 1st Lieut., and R. J. Southernland 2nd Lieut.

A negro was lodged in jail here last night, who, while the warrant was being served upon him by Chief of Police Rann in Oxford, fired upon the officer with a pistol, the officer seeing it just in time to knock the weapon up. The powder burnt the officer's mouth. He was wanted here for stealing an ox.

OXFORD NEWS.

The Alliance and the Tobacco Interest—Banks—Educational Matters—Social, Personal, &c.

[Special Cor. State Chronicle.]

OXFORD, April 3.—The young ladies and gentlemen will give a picnic on Easter Monday. Everybody who goes will surely enjoy it.

The Farmers' Alliance is erecting a large brick tobacco warehouse. There is another warehouse being built also, by Mr. Owen, of South Boston.

The Granville county Farmers' Alliance meets here to-day. A large attendance is expected to be present.

It has been too dry to handle tobacco, therefore there have been few breaks lately. There was a good sale yesterday morning.

Oxford has two good banks, J. C. Cooper & Sons', and the other The Bank of Oxford. Both of these are doing a nice business. There is more money in circulation here now than there has been for some time.

This is an educational centre. The Female Seminary has a wide reputation, as has Horner's School for boys also. Both of these are popular institutions and are very well attended.

The Episcopal congregation will soon begin the erection of a new church.

Chief of Police Rann had a narrow escape the other day. He arrested a negro, but the negro objected to go with him, and drew a pistol. The officer seized the pistol and turned the course of the ball. The powder burned his hand slightly.

A FRACTIONAL POSTAL CURRENCY.

The Matter Suggested—But no Action is Taken.

[By United Press.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 3.—The House committee on banking and currency spent its session to-day in hearing a report from a sub-committee that had been directed to obtain the views of the Postmaster General in regard to the establishment of a fractional postal currency. The sub-committee reported that the Postmaster General had no suggestions to offer in the matter. He did not deem such a currency necessary, because it would not accomplish the purpose desired. He thought that the English plan for placing stamps on cards, so that they could be sent through the mails, and be redeemable by postmasters might be established with success. The committee took no action on the report.

The Steam Tug Blanche Destroyed by Fire.

[From Wilmington Messenger.]

Mr. E. R. Demann, Signal Service observer at Southport, telegraphed yesterday that the steam tug Blanche was completely destroyed by fire there yesterday morning.

When the fire was discovered it was burning so fiercely that no one could approach the tug from the shore. The tug, which was lying in the harbor, and as she had some steam up, she towed the burning tug into shoal water, and with her steam pump threw water on to the boilers and machinery to prevent damage to them. What is left of the tug sank near the office of the pilots.

We learn from Capt. J. Harper, owner of the tug, that there was no insurance on the Blanche, and that it is his opinion that $4,000 will cover the damages, as the hull and machinery of the tug were submerged sufficiently to prevent any great damage to them.

The Blanche was a handsome and very powerful boat, and cost Capt. Harper $18,000. Her hull was iron and the engine room was enclosed with sheet iron plates.

WAR TO THE KNIFE.

IS SHAFER THE AUTHOR OF THE ATTACK.

Shaffer or Somebody Like the Postmaster Makes an Attack Upon Tim Lee, Loge Harris and Clerk of the Court, Upchurch.

The readers of the CHRONICLE are familiar with the fight waged against the confirmation of Postmaster Shaffer by Tim Lee, Loge Harris, and Chas. D. Upchurch.

It's none of our fight, but nevertheless when the enemy fall out, the CHRONICLE likes to keep up with the procession and know what they say of each other. Recently we published an interview with Clerk Upchurch in which he expressed himself pretty freely.

To-day we give the following article bearing upon the controversy. We do not know the author, but we take it that it was written or inspired by Postmaster Shaffer. It is rich reading, and is as follows:

"They have gaped upon me with their mouths; they have smitten me upon the cheek reproachfully; they have gathered themselves together against me." Job XVI, 10.

"I also will show mine opinion." Ibid., XXXII, 17.

THE SECOND BOOK OF THE CHRONICLES.

CHAPTER I.

THE THREE WICKED BRETHREN.

In the days of the reign of Ulysses the Great King, who ruled over the mighty Nation of the West, there arose out of the land of Tar and Turpentine, three men of Belial, of great stature and rotundity, and mighty in their own conceit.

And the name of the one was Timotheus, who was surnamed "The Bald," because his head was bare from his birth, like unto the palm of his hand, and he was a political acrobat from his youth up. His cheek was of brass; his legs of spring steel; his back of whalebone, and his feet of splayed lead; so that he could leap more political high fences, and fall squarer upon both feet in the camp of the enemy, than any other man that lived in that generation.

Now, Timotheus was a Hubite, and in those ancient days, when Ulysses was captain of the hosts of Abraham the King, there was war in the land, and the Hubites sent armed men unto the King, to fight against his enemies, even many companies, with guns and swords and horses and chariots, a great multitude sent them, like unto the sands of the sea; and they placed over them captains of thousands, and of hundreds, and of fifties, and of tens, to go with them into battle; and these were mighty men of valor. Now, Timotheus was captain of tens in the ninth company of the Hubites. On his shoulder was a blue coat with brass buttons; a red sash was girded about his loins, and he carried a sword and looked fierce—for the enemy were yet many days' journey away when he thirsted for their blood and their spoil.

But it came to pass on the second day of the eleventh month, in the first year of the reign of King Abraham, that the two hosts met and pitched their tents over against one another for battle, and behold it was night, and darkness spread over the land as a blanket—that they could not distinguish one from another. So they laid themselves down and slept, and when they rose on the morrow for battle, lo! Timotheus wasn't there; for he had gone on a long journey upon urgent business in the way they had come, and they wist not that he would return, for he had been dismissed the King's service! So they chose from among them a captain in his stead, and he was known among them no more forever.

Now in the fifth year of the reign of King Abraham, in the fourth month, and about the twentieth day of the month, the hosts of Abraham the King, having overcome all their enemies, were assembled in a certain place in the land of Tar and Turpentine, and they were resting from their labors, for peace had been proclaimed, and there was to be no more war in all that land. And about that time there came forth from the assembled multitude of armed men, one of giant stature, arrayed in the garb of a camp bummer, and he lifted up his voice and spake, saying:

"LEAVE ME HAVE TEN DOLLARS!"

And they knew him for Timotheus the suttler; who was also the father of them that were called carpet-baggers in those days. And he abided among them.

And the name of another was Loge, who was also called "Coon," because he hasted to "come down" when the assembly of people looked darkly upon him in the Temple of Justice where he dwelt, so that he died, politically; and it hath come to pass because there was none to bury him in the tomb of his fathers, that he walketh to and fro and up and down in the earth to save funeral expenses, doing evil continually, even unto this day.

And lo! he is a daisy from a way-back!

And the name of the last is Raleech, surnamed Up-at-the-Church, because he affected piety, and prayeth there on his knees all day Sunday, and on his neighbors all the rest of the week. Moreover, unlike David the king, at the threshing-floor of Onan, the Jebusite, he taketh that which is not his own, and offereth burnt offerings without cost.

Now it came to pass in his salad days when he was green—when the eider-down, that sweet forerunner of the toga virilis, was yet a stranger to his lip—that he grew bucolic and joined himself unto the Home Guards of the land in which he then was, and, journeying into the camp of the men of war taken in battle, he was set to guard the sick, the wounded, maimed and dying of the enemy who were lodged there, less they raise up their legless trunks and crawl upon their empty bellies unto the camp of the army of King Davis and devour it, for they had not tasted flesh for many days. And lo! as he watched he fell asleep; and as he slept he dreamed dreams; and in his dream he saw a vision; and in his vision he saw the ghastly skeletons of the sheeted dead rise from their unnoted graves and point their long fleshless fingers at him; and he awoke affrighted. His skin rose in tittering goose-flesh, and each individual hair stood on end, like quills upon the fretful porcupine. And it is written that he dropped his arms, and fell in terror through the spooky night and fell among the camp fires of the enemy; and they took him away and carried him into a far country, even unto the camp that is called "Chase," and after that they had anointed his creeping flesh and greased and soaped down his rampant hair, they gave unto him the oath of allegiance and a square meal, and let him go. So he meandered southward at his own sweet will, and got himself into his own land among his own kin, and hath since been heard to declare that but for these vile guns, and the villainous suttler, he would have destroyed a fellow, he would have been a soldier!

"But he wasn't!" for he joined himself unto one Isaac, who was a Farmer of the King's Revenue, and together they served the king and oppressed the people grievously, until, in the day of their sore distress, they cried out unto the King with a loud and bitter cry; and when he had taken them and brought them before his judges, they were tried before them, and many grievous things were alleged and proven against them—so that they trembled in their places before the assembly of the offended people, lest they be stripped of their official robes and cast into the dungeon of the malefactor.

And the outcome of that great trial, and the manner of it, lo! it is written by himself in auto-biograph, in the Book of Job, in the XIXth chapter and 20th verse, and the last part of the verse, q. v.

And about that time these three men met, and as they gazed into the countenances, one of another, lo! they were Brethren—for they were of a feather; fit for treason, stratagems and spoils.

Now the Act of these Three Brethren when they had joined themselves together and conspired to deceive and rule over the people to their hurt; how they parted their treasure among them, and for the vesture of office did cast lots; the folly and crime of their wicked reign, and the cause and manner of their overthrow, which is yet to come, lo! it is written in the coming chapters of these Chronicles, and shall appear after seven times, to be read and known of all men; and while these seven times pass over, the three lone brethren wandering about the fountains of the river that is called Salt, let them tune their voices to the lyre's note and sing as it were a new song, and this shall be the refrain thereof:

"Tell all the people, we know not why, But 'we never speak' as we pass by!"
